

► SPLURGE

PYTHON WITH METAL CHAIN HANDBAG BY JANE AUGUST

Never underestimate the allure of a classic. This earth-tone python bag is chic, can work with any wardrobe, and will stay relevant for the next year—or even five. $1,895. Vertu, 3000 E. Third Ave., 303-333-8883

▲ STEAL

REBECCA BOURKE

COIN PEARL LARIAT NECKLACE

We discovered Denver-based Rebecca Bourke's gorgeous jewelry at the Boulder Creek Festival this summer, and bought a handful of the lariats for the moms and sisters on our holiday list. We like the classic lines, superb craftsmanship, and approachable prices of her line. $75. www.rebeccabourke.com, 970-618-3520

◀ STEAL

BABY CANDY ONESIES

Created by a Denver-based family, these onsies are sure to set your bundle of joy apart. We love the versions with irreverent phrases like "Dear Santa, Please Define Naughty" or "100% Sugar." Or customize your own for the kiddo you love. $17 to $20. Baby Candy, 303-931-2628, www.babycandystore.com

▼ SPLURGE

VOLKL'S TIGERSHARK POWERSWITCH

You want to cruise the groomers at Vail with your kids, but you also yearn to rip Beaver Creek's Birds of Prey at 50 mph. Don't buy two pairs of skis just yet. Instead, get two for the price of, um, one very expensive ski. Volk's Tigershark Powerswitch has a mechanism that, no joke, lets you switch between two modes—one for Easy Street, the other for the Rocky Mountain Superhighway. And it works, provided you have the dough necessary to step into a pair. $1,200. www.volkl.com

